Canadian Tech Company an Economic Development Win

Psion Teklogix is a $350 million publicly traded provider of mobile computing systems for a range of industries worldwide. Retaining Psion in Northern Kentucky was an important regional economic development initiative. Al. Neyer developed, designed and built Psion's new North American headquarters in our Riverview Business Park, minutes from Greater Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky International Airport.

Psion's new building has a contemporary design that reflects its focus on new technology. The efficient tilt-up concrete construction is complemented by visually interesting curtain walls at the entrance. Low-E glass windows wrap most of the building, providing increased thermal efficiency and excellent natural lighting within. The interior features 10' and 11' ceilings in the office and technology work areas.
